

Data Retention Policy

Data Retention Policy

The company is committed to maintaining accurate and up-to-date records of all customer interactions, transactions, and communications. As part of this commitment, we have established a data retention policy that outlines the duration for which certain types of data must be retained. This policy applies to all employees and departments within the organization.

Customer records are an essential component of our business operations, and as such, they must be retained for a minimum of 7 years from the date of final account closure. This ensures that we can provide accurate information to customers and comply with relevant regulatory requirements. As described under the Expense Reimbursement Procedure policy, employees who have incurred expenses on behalf of the company are required to submit receipts and supporting documentation for reimbursement. These records must be retained for a minimum of 7 years from the date of final account closure, in accordance with this data retention policy.

In addition to customer records, other types of data may also be subject to this policy. For example, employee personnel files, including remote work eligibility information as outlined under the Remote Work Eligibility Guidelines policy, must be retained for a minimum of 7 years from the date of final account closure or termination of employment. This ensures that we can provide accurate information about our employees and comply with relevant regulatory requirements.

The company recognizes that data retention policies can have significant implications for employee productivity and work-life balance. To minimize these impacts, all employees are expected to adhere to this policy and ensure that all data is properly retained and disposed of in accordance with company procedures.
