

Employee Social Media Conduct Guidelines

As employees of [Company Name], you are expected to maintain a professional online presence when representing the company on social media platforms. This includes, but is not limited to, personal and professional profiles, as well as any public forums or discussion groups where your affiliation with the company may be apparent. When sharing content related to the company, it is essential to remember that you are an ambassador of [Company Name], and your words and actions can reflect on the organization as a whole.

When expressing opinions or engaging in discussions on social media, please refrain from representing personal views as official company positions. This means avoiding statements that could be misinterpreted as endorsements or approvals from management, unless explicitly authorized to do so by your supervisor or HR representative. As described under the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Commitment Policy, [Company Name] values diversity of thought and encourages open dialogue, but it is crucial to maintain a professional tone and avoid sharing personal opinions that may be perceived as divisive or discriminatory.

When discussing confidential company information on social media, you must never share such details publicly. This includes sensitive business practices, proprietary technologies, or any other information that could potentially harm the company's competitive edge. As outlined in the Third-Party Security Audit Procedure, [Company Name] takes the security of our intellectual property very seriously, and sharing confidential information without proper clearance can compromise this effort. By adhering to these guidelines, you will help protect the company's reputation and maintain a positive online presence.

In addition to maintaining professional content, it is also essential to ensure that your personal social media profiles do not reflect negatively on [Company Name]. This includes avoiding posts or updates that could be perceived as unprofessional, inflammatory, or inconsistent with our values. By being mindful of your online presence and adhering to these guidelines, you will contribute to a positive and respectful brand image that aligns with the company's mission and values.

If you are unsure about what constitutes acceptable social media content for [Company Name], please consult with your supervisor or HR representative for guidance. They can provide clarification on specific policies and procedures, ensuring that you stay within the bounds of our guidelines and maintain a professional online presence.
